Pastor's Corner

Dear Parishioners,

Life has a wonderful purpose: to live as God's children in this world, while getting ready to fully share God's life and joy in heaven.

God never meant his gifts to be hindrance; he meant them to be a help for us to discover his love and goodness and thus lead us closer to himself.

Money and possessions too are God's gifts; we should make use of them in order to become spiritually rich. We should be on guard against greed which turns possessions into an obstacle on our way to God.

The readings this Sunday remind us that without God all our strivings lead to nothing. Material possessions do not offer security. Our Security rests in God alone. Our greatest treasure on earth is the Life in the Spirit which we received at baptism. Jesus challenges us to re-examine our priorities and the way we use our possessions. Instead of growing rich for ourselves, he invites us to grow rich in the sight of God. To put our energy and our trust in things that do not perish, and place our security in God, the lavish giver of all gifts.

Blessings,
Rev. Greg Honorio

Reflection

The Dazzling Beauty of the Transfiguration

It is natural to look for beauty and to love it, even though the idea of what is beautiful varies between one person and another. Now, what is more marvelous than the divine beauty? What can you think of that is more likely to give pleasure than the magnificence of God? What desire could be more ardent, more irresistible than the thirst which God inspires in the soul when once it has been purified of every vice and cries out: I am sick with Love (Sg 2:5).

The divine beauty is beyond description in words. We could compare its brilliance to the light of the morning star or the moon or the sun. But we would be as far from a true description as midday is from the dead of night. This beauty is invisible to the eyes of the body; only the soul and the mind can perceive it. Every time it illumines the saints, it leaves in them a sting, a nostalgia so strong as to wring from them the cry: Woe is me, that I am in exile still (cf. Ps 120:5).

By our nature we human beings aspire to what is beautiful and love it. But what is beautiful is also good. God is good. Everyone looks for the good, therefore everyone looks for God.
